Art is Good Creative Workshop

Sunday, November 15th from 1pm-4pm

SurfTaco in Belmar, 1003 Main Street

"Art is not so much expressing oneself, as it is discovering oneself"

Art is Good is a beginner art workshop for people whose immediate family member has either been diagnosed with, or has passed away from a brain tumor. These classes are offered to give them the opportunity to socialize with others who are in the same situation. It is not therapy, but a forum for expression either through creativity, friendship or just being. Art students are invited to bring a friend. A social worker is available upon request for families that would like counseling.

DETAILS REGARDING CREATIVE WORKSHOP:

- Creative workshop is open to both kids, teens and adults
- The workshop will be part of an ongoing series of creative workshops
- Artist, Tim Kelly will teach the art classes and workshops (www.timkellyartist.com)
- Participants are encouraged to attend with a friend, but it is not mandatory
- Each student will be provided all of the supplies and materials needed to make art
- A David S. Zocchi Brain Tumor Center case worker is available on-site upon request
- The workshop series will culminate with a reception to show the artwork produced
